

the passage of a bill to amend schedule K can be had until December, Congress will then be in possession of a full and satisfactory report upon the whole schedule.

Most Complicated Schedule.
This brings me to the consideration of the terms of the bill presented for my approval. Schedule K is the most complicated schedule in the tariff. It classifies raw wool with different rates for different classes; it affords the manufacturer what is called a compensatory duty to make up for the increased price of the raw material he had to use, due to the rate on raw wool, and for the shrinkage that takes place in scouring the wool for manufacture; and it gives him, in addition, an ad valorem duty to protect him against foreign competition which prevails in scouring the wool, in making the yarn, and in the manufacture of cloth present a complication of technical detail that prevents any one not especially informed concerning wool growing and manufacture, from understanding the schedule, and the effect of changes in the various rates and percentages.

There is a widespread belief that many rates in the present schedule are too high and are in excess of what needed protection for the wool grower or manufacturer. I share this belief and have so stated in several public addresses. But I have not sufficient data upon which I can judge how schedule K ought to be amended or how its rates ought to be reduced in order that the new bill shall furnish the proper measure of protection and no more. Nor have I sources of information which satisfy me that the bill presented to me for my signature will accomplish this result. It was introduced and passed in the House as providing a tariff for wool only, and with the avowed purpose of departing from a protective tariff policy.

The message will be accepted as an indication that no tariff bills prepared in advance of a report of the tariff board upon schedules affected will be signed by the President.

ENGLAND'S ARMY IS READY FOR FRAY

(Continued From First Page.)

Members of Parliament have resolved to support to the finish, in session to-night, issued a manifesto reviewing its position since the 1907

YOUNG WOMAN KILLED IN WRECK ON S. A. L.

Five Others Seriously Injured, One Fatally—Disaster Near Wilmington Caused by "Rail Kind" Following Intense Heat.

Wilmington, N. C., August 17.—Seaboard Air Line passenger train No. 40, Charlotte and Atlanta to Wilmington, was wrecked five miles east of Lumberton, N. C., early this afternoon. The train was carrying a number of passengers bound for Wrightsville Beach for the week-end, being derailed and turned over. Miss Bessie Jones, of Montgomery, Ala., was instantly killed. Five others were seriously injured, none of them fatally, it is said. The wreck is said to have been caused by "rail kink" following the intense heat of the afternoon. The injured were taken to Bladenboro, N. C., for treatment. After receiving temporary medical attention at the scene of the wreck, the injured were brought here to-night and are being cared for by physicians. With the exception of Pullman Conductor J. B. Hill, of this city, who is thought to have received internal injuries, none are seriously hurt, the list being:

J. M. Fitzpatrick, Wetumpka, Ala.,

CONCERT PROGRAM

List of Selections for Park Music Next Week.

Following is the program for park concerts for the week beginning August 21:

March, "On a Wagon," Purdy.
Overture, "The Merry Widow," Schmitt.
Vocal solo, "I'll March in April," H. D. Zarrow.
Piano, "Dixie-Star Spangled Banner," Joseph C. Kessnich, bandmaster.

Schedule of parks for week of August 21:

Monday night—Chimborazo Square.

Tuesday night—Bluffs Square.

Wednesday night—Gamble's Hill Square.

Thursday night—Washington Square.

Friday night—Bluffs Square.

Saturday afternoon—William Byrd Park.

Selection, "The Girl in the Train," Leo Fall.

Grand opera, "Amina," Lincke.

Medley overture, "Ted Snyder's," Schmitt.

Vocal solo, "I'll March in April," H. D. Zarrow.

Finale, "Dixie-Star Spangled Banner," Joseph C. Kessnich, bandmaster.

Schedule of parks for week of August 21:

Monday night—Chimborazo Square.

Tuesday night—Bluffs Square.

Wednesday night—Gamble's Hill Square.

Thursday night—Washington Square.

Friday night—Bluffs Square.

Saturday afternoon—William Byrd Park.

Selection, "The Girl in the Train," Leo Fall.

Grand opera, "Amina," Lincke.

Medley overture, "Ted Snyder's," Schmitt.

Vocal solo, "I'll March in April," H. D. Zarrow.

Finale, "Dixie-Star Spangled Banner," Joseph C. Kessnich, bandmaster.

Schedule of parks for week of August 21:

Monday night—Chimborazo Square.

Tuesday night—Bluffs Square.

Wednesday night—Gamble's Hill Square.

Thursday night—Washington Square.

Friday night—Bluffs Square.

Saturday afternoon—William Byrd Park.

Selection, "The Girl in the Train," Leo Fall.

Grand opera, "Amina," Lincke.

Medley overture, "Ted Snyder's," Schmitt.

Vocal solo, "I'll March in April," H. D. Zarrow.

Finale, "Dixie-Star Spangled Banner," Joseph C. Kessnich, bandmaster.

"Berry's for Clothes"

Here's something in clothing for that vacation trip. Norfolk suits for boys from $8 to $18 at $4.75 instead of $7.50.

Double-breasted suits in blue, grays and browns at $8.75 instead of $8.50.

Look thru this list—is it all in the suit case?

Collars, cravats, shirts, underwear, pajamas, hose, handkerchiefs.

A solid leather Suit Case that will last for almost a lifetime, $5.00.

Everything else for traveling.

C. H. Derry

agreement with the railway companies was entered into and how the companies have avoided the obligations they assumed by it. It says the companies adopted a policy of delay in considering their grievances and have harassed the men until they are worse than slaves. It is declared that the companies now arrogantly refuse to meet the representatives of the men.

As the men throughout the kingdom have shown the unchangeable determination not to tolerate this state of affairs any longer, the manifesto says in conclusion, "we call upon all railway men to strike a united blow for deliverance from petty tyranny, and also to help obtain higher wages, shorter hours and a more humane life for all."

When came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were called.

As the first roll-call was concluded those who had kept track of the vote realized that the Democratic cotton bill had received a favorable vote of 29 to 10.

Senator La Follette finally offered his bill as a substitute for the House bill and the amendments that had been added to it.

The La Follette substitute secured no votes, however, but those of Insurgents.

Regulars Refuse to Vote.

Then came the final vote on the House cotton bill. Only the Democrats voted for it, but as the roll-call proceeded it became apparent that Republicans were sitting in the chamber and not voting or were stepping back into the cloak rooms before their names were